

Scorch Instructions

SCORCH is a "plugin" (an extra program) for your internet browser. It allows you to hear the music, change tempo, change pitch and print out the music. Before trying to load the music, you MUST install the plugin. The web address where you can get the plugin is: <http://www.sibelius.com/scorch/>

If you try to load the scorch music file and get the screen below, it means that you have not installed the Scorch plugin or you have not installed it correctly.

The install process works OK under Windows if you use Internet Explorer as your browser. If you use Firefox as your browser, please read the special instructions that you'll see on the Scorch website.

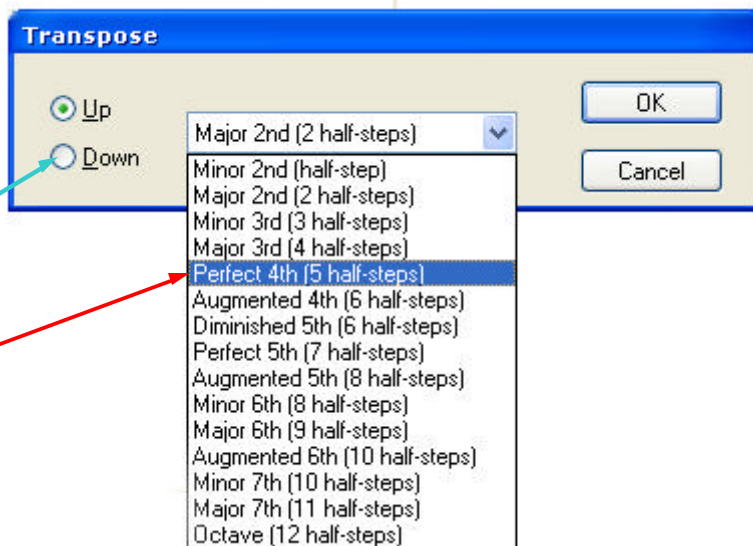

There may be special instructions required if you are running a MAC.

If you've done everything necessary, when you choose your Scorch part you will get the same window as you see below WITH a page of sheet music in it. If you got that, then go to the next page.

Use this button to Transpose the music so that it will sound closer to our instruments.

When you click on this button you will see a small window that says "Transpose" at the top. If you look at the graphic on the right you will see the window as it will appear when you click on the small arrowhead beside "Major 2nd (2 half steps)". To make the music sound closer to our instruments, highlight and select "Perfect 4th" After that, click on "Down" and then "OK"

"Play" button
Use this to listen to the music

This is the Tempo Slider. Move it to the left to slow down the tempo for playback and move it to the right to increase the tempo.
